

Will You Tell Overture

By Rachel Arntson

Copyrights Rachel Arntson and Kids' Express Train, 2011

Will You Tell Overture

- The paper work in special ed. will make me sick and strike me dead.
- They say the Easy IEP will help my efficiency.
- At the same time they will add forms, and rules, and dates like mad.
- Then to add more agony, make it retroactively.

- Don't forget the timelines. They are crucial to our paper work.
- Make the dates and times all different just to make it really hurt.
- Is it 30 days or 45 days or 3 months from now?
- I don't know if I can do this. Will you please just tell me how?

- The 45 day clock is a ticking away.
- No summer for me. I just think I will stay,
- In the Early Childhood Marriott with therapy balls and a coffee pot.
- I'll type on Easy IEP and write a progress summary.
- Before we can do therapy there's paper work the state must see.
- Permissions, eligibility, and now

Part B and C.

- I just LOVE to work in Special Ed.
- But I would trade the paper work
to work with kids instead.
- My next job, I think, is going to be
With kids and not a paper factory.

- Help me stop this paper shuffling mess.
- Send relief from all my stress.
- I don't think I can do it anymore.

- Remember to have them sign the dotted line.
- Is the date I use the meeting date or when the parents sign?
- My brain is stuffed. I can't stuff anymore.
- You'll probably find me passed out on the floor.

- I just LOVE to work in Special Ed.
- But I would trade the paper work
to work with kids instead.
- My next job, I think, is going to be
With kids and not a paper factory.

- Third party billing, attendance sheet ---- free lunch forms you must complete.
- About the time I learn the HELP, they'll tell me it is obsolete.
- Birth certificates, immunizations, and the intake forms
- Most of all, do not forget to do Child Outcome Summary forms.

- The 45 day clock is a ticking away.
- No summer for me. I just think I will stay,
- In the Early Childhood Marriott with therapy balls and a coffee pot.
- Who knows what one more year will bring without collective bargaining.
- Who will tell them in D.C. to re-think this new policy?
- McCain, Obama, Hillary?

- I don't care who comes to give a push.
- To end this nightmare. I'd take even Bush.

- OK. I know that I'm unreasonable.
- Incapable, intolerable, and miserable.

- Oh will you, will you, will you, will you,
will you, will you, will you, will you,
- Will you tell someone to give a push?
- To end this nightmare. I'd taken even Bush.

- Will you, will you, will you, will you tell?
- Will you tell? Sound the sirens. Ring the bell!
- Will you, will you, will you, will you, will you, will you, will you, will you tell?

- Will you tell, will you tell, will you tell someone? Will you tell, will you tell, will you tell someone? Tell someone? Tell someone?
- Oh will you, will you, will you, will you, will you, will you, will you, will you tell, tell, tell, tell, tell, tell, tell
- Will you, will you, will you tell? Will you tell? Tell someone?

HELP!!!

By Rachel Arntson

Copyrights Rachel Arntson and Kids' Express Train, 2011